

Glades Residents Hold To Old Date In Annual Observance.

School Board Designates
Nov. 30 As School
Holiday

Residents of the Lake Okeechobee farming region are going to celebrate Thanksgiving this year on Thursday, November 30. Those of us who live here on the shores of Lake Okeechobee may be called a bit old fashioned but for these many years we've been celebrating the last Thursday in October and it's mighty hard to get out of that habit. Maybe, next year, after due consideration, we'll fall in line and change to the date a week earlier set up by the Presi-

A survey among the merchants in the Lake Region shows that 100 per cent of the ones contacted are in favor of the old date. Many citizens also expressed the desire to celebrate the festival day on November 30.

November 30—the day proclaimed by Governor Cone — will be the only Thanksgiving Banks have been asking Comptroller J. M. Lee when they should observe the legal holiday in view of the President's announced intention to set November 23.

"Unless and until President Roosevelt issues an official proclamation naming November 23 as Thanksgiving day," Lee said Tuesday, "we shall assume there will be no conflict and Thanksgiving will come the last Thursday in November, as always."

"If the President sees fit to break precedent, we shall shall do what we can to eliminate confusion which might result if some banks observe one day and the rest observe another."

Motorists "Doing Fine" Through School Zone

Haywood Baxter, Pahokee police chief, said yesterday that motorists passing through Pahokee school zones are "doing fine" this term. So far it has been unnecessary to make any arrests for speeding through the zone. Only a few have been cautioned since the major portion of those who drive cars through the zone have become conscious of the necessity to reduce their speed. The police chief seeks full co-operation of all

COE, SENATORIAL CANDIDATE, BRANDS STATE LEGISLATORS AS NITWITS AND THIRD- RATE THINKERS

"We've had a lot of requests for extra copies of this newspaper regarding the now widely-quoted charge of Congressman Coe against the state legislators of west legislators that we are nitwits and third-rate thinkers. The article appeared in the issue of September 29th, appears in full below:

Charles Francis Coe, of Palm Beach, anti-New Deal candidate for Senator Charles O. Andrews' seat in the senate, evidently doesn't have such a high regard for those gentlemen who go to make up state legislatures. Before the Belle Glade Rotary club in the course of his remarks on state and national politics he said:

"Of all the political nitwits in America, the voters sitified out the third-rate thinkers and parked them in the 48 state legislatures."

We give the voters of the state of Florida credit for giving a pretty good job in selecting men to serve in our state legislatures. We believe that the voters and taxpayers are of average intelligence and can't convince ourselves that they'd pick only "nit-wits" and "third-rate thinkers."

There is a possibility that Mr. Coe had no idea when he made the remark that he might have to call on these "nitwits and third-rate thinkers" for a little help, aid and assistance in their respective counties during the course of his campaign for the senate. Nitwit or no nitwit, each fellow who serves his county in the state legislature must have a number of friends back home or he would never have reached the capitol hails in Tallahassee as a lawmaker.

The rangier story author will learn a lot about politics. In the course of a few months (if he remains in the senatorial race) he will learn that these same voters who know no more than to elect "nitwits" and "third-rate thinkers" are smarter than they may seem to him.

CO-OPERATION NECESSARY UNLESS FEW ARE TO CARRY BURDEN

With the opening of another picking and packing season still several weeks off, something has been happening immediately to ease the transient labor already in the Glades to work during crop season. They're here because they've heard in other hands that this is a land of milk and honey and that money grows on bushes. Of course, they've been misled—but they're here and it becomes our obligation to see that they don't starve between now and the time the crops come in.

Some sort of co-operative effort must be made at once to see that these folks get food and shelter. A few merchants can't carry the load any longer. It's a habit with some among this class of people to "hit up" grocery stores and merchants on front streets for a handout. With some it's a business. With others it's a mere existence.

Merchants alone can't continue to hand out their cash and groceries. They must have help. The Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, Lions club and Rotary club have joined hands to promote a plan to do away with this door to door handout. Whether the plan works or not is up to those most vitally interested—merchants, growers, packing house operators and the man on the street who must necessarily hand out dime many times a day.

Three men from each of the above clubs are working on a plan whereby a small donation, say a dime weekly, would be sought from those who work in the fields and packing houses. This money would be placed in a general fund to care for such emergencies as we have today. A sizeable sum could be raised and banked. Then, following frosts, or when other emergencies arise there would be some central office to handle this relief. Anyway, the plan sounds feasible and is well worth a trial with the wholehearted co-operation of everyone concerned.

WE WANT YEAR 'ROUND MERCHANTS—NOT THE "FLY-BY-NIGHT" VARIETY

For years we have preached about the virtues of home-town merchants. We'll continue to do so as long as these same merchants stick it out the year 'round and help to build a community. We've said it before and repeat it now—these are the fellows who finance your schools, your churches, your local civic organizations, and every worthwhile project.

There is another kind of merchant on whom we can't spend laudatory phrases. He's the fellow who picks a spot in the Lake Region for a few months out of the year when business is good—and blows when the crop season is over.

The year 'round boys stick it out through thick and thin. They stand the gaff in the summer when the going is rough. They spit on their hands and roll up their sleeves and dig in. All they want is a fair chance to match their wits with one another. Something must be done to protect the man who helps to build a community. If you have a workable solution for such a problem the chamber of commerce or city officials will more than appreciate your suggestion.

But, they can't do it if "fly-by-nights" continue to muscle in on legitimate business enterprises. Something must be done to protect the man who helps to build a community. If you have a workable solution for such a problem the chamber of commerce or city officials will more than appreciate your suggestion.

THANKSGIVING WILL BE CELEBRATED IN GLADES ON NOVEMBER 30

A survey of business houses in the Glades farming section this week shows that merchants and other business houses will celebrate Thanksgiving on Thursday, November 30 this year. Despite the president's proclamation changing the date to the Thursday a week earlier the people of the Glades area will celebrate the day set aside by Governor Cone—the last Thursday in November. In the canvass a few merchants may have been absent from their stores but 100 per cent of those called upon favored the usual date—the last Thursday.

badge that was good for admission to anything and everything on the grounds. At noon the gang was taken to the club house for a barbecue. Where all the people came from I don't know, but they sure came in droves. At times the grounds were so packed a guy needed a dark lantern and a shimmy to break through the mob.

During the afternoon the press gang was taken on a tour of the grounds and then turned loose to enjoy themselves in the midway where they took full advantage of their passes to all the shows and rides. An excellent grandstand show was provided, supplemented with a brilliant fireworks display at night.

Highlight of the evening was a dance with Gene Krupa and his boys furnishing the music. You've heard him on the radio of course, but you just ought to see that guy in action. I've seen a lot of drummers in my time, but Krupa takes a couple of drumsticks and goes as tickles as a clock, worryin' the lot of a dozen drums and a whole lot of cymbals and other devious, until everybody in the place is as jittery as a bowl of Jello in a windstorm. It was a swell wind-up for a grand and glorious day.

Thanks to Mike and "Red," I had a chance to get in some much press for the State Department of Education staff to acquaint school people with the developments in the improvement of instruction, to obtain cooperation in organizing faculty groups for a study of instructional problems. I can make plans for the use of recent instructional materials, and to pick together the next step to be taken in the state program for improvement of instruction. Counties to be represented at the meeting include Palm Beach, Okeechobee, St. Lucie, Indian River and Martin.

You Are Subject To Arrest If You Don't Have Driver Permit

Governor Cone Issues Edict To All Sheriffs In The State

Tallahassee, Oct. 19.—Governor Fred P. Cone notified all sheriffs last week that October 15 was the deadline for motorists to secure drivers licenses and asked the sheriffs to give as much publicity to this fact as possible.

In his letter to the sheriffs, Governor Cone stated that the people have had ample time to purchase drivers licenses and that he did not intend to extend the time further.

The Governor requested the sheriffs to cooperate with county judges and with the Motor Vehicle Department and arrest any person found driving without a license after October 15. He said he hated to take this action but due to the fact that funds from the sale of drivers licenses are coming in so slowly, it would be several months before he would be able to set up the State Road Patrol unless more revenue was received.

All county judges were notified last week by D. W. Finley, Motor Vehicle Commissioner and Executive Officer of the Department of Public Safety, that contrary to reports being circulated it is not necessary that an applicant for a drivers license be examined merely because he failed to secure his license prior to October 1. He instructed the county judges to issue licenses to all persons applying for the same after October 1, until further notice.

However, he advised them that persons not having licenses after Oct. 15 are subject to arrest if apprehended while operating a motor vehicle on the highways of the state.

By elimination of the "war clause" on all policies, the Gulf Life Insurance Company, a Florida institution, has taken the lead over all other insurance companies in protecting its policy holders. This action is expected to have far reaching effects on the insurance structure of the nation, officials contend.

Florida beauticians will hold their annual convention, trade show and beauty school at the Tampa, Terrace Hotel, Tampa, October 22 to 25.

Now I can restate old things, but an invitation to attend "Press Day" at the Southeastern Fair in Atlanta last week was more tempting than I could stand, so I quit everything and hopped aboard one of Capt. Eddie Hickenbacker's Eastern Air Liners, to be met at the Atlanta airport by "Red" Edgerton of the Western Newspaper Union.

These Georgia newspaper folks are a mighty fine crowd, and I found that they take their fair going seriously, for, believe it or not, nearly six hundred members of the "Fourth Estate" and their publishers and their staffs, and a families, turned out for the event. I've attended a lot of newspaper parties and a lot of fairs, but I don't believe I ever encountered more downright hospitality or had a better time. Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair, says he knows how to play host and will the out of Georgia dignitaries who acted as a special delegation, gave the newspaper to read and give a day long to be remembered.

These Georgia folks are big boys, cattle and poultry in a big way and the exhibits of cattle and birds were some of the finest I have ever seen. If you hold the crazy idea that all they raise in Georgia are rance-back hogs and woads come, you should and I found that they take their fair going seriously, for, believe it or not, nearly six hundred members of the "Fourth Estate" and their publishers and their staffs, and a families, turned out for the event.

$1,250,000 Is Being Spent By Federal Government On New St. Lucie Canal Lock

The Stuart News last week carried an interesting and complete story about construction of the new lock on the St. Lucie Canal. Believing this story to be of interest to readers in the Lake Okechobee region, we are reproducing it as it appeared in the Stuart paper last week. It follows:

The east rim of Lake Okechobee will be only nine miles from Stuart's back door when the government completes the new St. Lucie Canal Lock.

The giant construction project, now in its 27th day, will progressively move the edge of the lake to East Coast territory, since it will do away with the lock at Port Mayaca, and result in a lake-level canal.

Engineers now on the project figure that, before its completion, $1,250,000 will be spent on the job; adding cost of a new spillway not included in the $612,000 Clary Brothers contract, and a cost of government supplied locks, machinery and government supervision of the improvement.

Although work has been underway only since the first of this month, Philip J. Gray, superintendent of the contracting firm, whose prior experience as a New York consulting engineer, active in engineering supervision of New York subway tunnels, and the Hell Gate Bridge job well qualifies him for the post, said today that 18,000 cubic yards of earth have been removed already from the lock site, with 98,000 more cubic yards of excavation in prospect. After the lock is built, Gray said, some 100,000 more cubic yards will be removed in straightening and deepening canal approaches.

Dry figures, imposing enough, fail to convey the size of the project, except from an engineering viewpoint. Here are a few of them. About 2,300 wood foundation piling will be driven. About 60,000 square feet of steel sheet piling will be sunk. More than 14,000 cubic yards of concrete will be poured on the job. Four giant steel gates, like the hurricane gates on Lake Okechobee's levee, will be placed at entrance to the lock. The present completion of 30 men, mostly employed on tractors, draglines and other earth-moving machinery, will be swelled to more than 200 workers by next March, when the peak of the labor need will be reached.

"At that time," said Gray, "we will probably be employing some 70 or 80 carpenters. Concrete gangs, piling-driving and labor gangs will make up the remainder."

From the minute the work started, a race against time began. Alotted 450 days in which to complete the lock, contractors face a $200 a day penalty if the work is not completed by scheduled expiration date.

THE COP IS GETTING CLOSER

installing preliminary electrical connections, such as thousands of service to the pumps and so forth. Bids are now being asked, according to Gray, on construction of five locks included in the contract.

A government engineering staff of 12 men is already on the site, headed by Cameron J. Smith, associate engineer from the Chicago district, where he was based at Peoria. The resident engineer stated that there would be 11 feet of water over the lower sill of the new lock at mean low water. When the lake level is 10 feet higher there will be about 15 1/2 feet of water over the upper sill of the lock, he said. The new lock will correspond in depth approximately to the lock at Orona, which has 11 feet at mean low water on its lower sill. However, the controlling factor will be at Moore Haven on the west shore of the lake, where the lake level itself will determine the depth of the cross-stake canal. When the lake is low, around 14 feet, there will be 10 feet of water through Moore Haven. When Okechobee is high, around 16 feet, there will be 12 feet at Moore Haven. Figuring high water at both lower sills of Orona and St. Lucie East Locks, and a 16-foot lake level, the cross-stake waterway will have a depth of 12 feet.

Although no public announcement has yet been made of the intention to build a new spillway at the St. Lucie lock, the News was informed that the lock project itself includes a "tie-off" for such a spillway directly above the present spillway. Several feet higher than the present spillway, it is possible that it will be incorporated with the existing structure.

Lauderdale Falls Before Blue Devil Aggregation 13 to 0

Hobsenmen Give East Coasters Trouncing Last Friday

Playing before a crowd of 3,000 football fans Friday night, the Pahokee Blue Devils defeated the Port Lauderdale Flying 13's to the tune of 13 to 0. The Blue Devils dominated the playing by running up 9 first downs to 3 for the Flying 13's.

In the middle of the second quarter, J. Kautz, Kermit Dell, and I. J. Frasure marched to the 12 yard line on smashing plays, then Kautz on the next play ran around the end of the line for the first score. Kautz kicked for the extra point which went between the uprights.

In the third quarter, Baxter started a scoring march by carrying the ball 19 yards from punt formation. Frasure picked up 14 yards then Frasure passed to Pencock for the second touchdown. Kautz missed his drop kick for the extra point. Score, Pahokee, 13; Lauderdale, 0.

Hancock, Unwin, and Baxter starred in the line for the Blue Devils and Baxter netted more yardage than did Sapp on punts. Sapp, former Pahokee boy, was not granted much thought nor was he allowed many yard gains. Late in the third quarter he started clicking and advanced the pignote to the 20 yard line. After replacements were rushed into the Blue Devil line the drive to play dirt was checked.

The last quarter was played on even terms, the entire quarter being mostly a punting exchange.

Fraser Is First To Pay Entrance Fee In Governor's Race

St. Augustine Mayor Tosses Hat and Check At Same Time

Tallahassee, Oct. 19.—Walter B. Fraser, five times mayor of St. Augustine, announced this week that he would be a candidate for governor subject to democratic primaries next May and qualified for the race by paying the necessary qualifying fee to Secretary of State R. A. Gray.

Fraser came to Florida in 1925 from Florence, S. C., Georgia. He is 50 years of age, and a graduate of Emory University, an Elk, Shriner, Kiwanian, and member of the Methodist Church.

Terming Florida a land of neglected opportunity, Fraser said, if elected, he would exert every effort toward the development of the state's natural resources.

"I believe we should advertise our attractions and opportunities," he added, and I am confident the solution to virtually all our current ills can be accomplished by bringing more people, new business and more money to the state.

"This would be the answer, not only to the state's fiscal problem but also to the individual economic situation, and progress is not necessarily expensive."

"I feel that any investment that the state may make in such a program will be a sound investment, and this can be done without burdening the taxpayer."

"In the course of my campaign," he concluded, "I will have no doubts in the minds of the people of Florida as to the specific means by which I propose to improve our road system, health conditions, better our educational facilities and other parts of my program."

The State of Florida gained much favorable national publicity in being the first exhibitor at the New York World's Fair to sign up for 1940.
